

Howell Intramural Hockey Club Division Change Request

As an intramural club, Howell Hockey places greater emphasis on the player's overall learning experience, enjoyment and safety than on the competitive nature of sports.

The composition of all but the Midget Division will change approximately 50% each year (every two seasons) as players move up naturally. Each division will always have its share of more experienced or competitive players that are distributed among the teams during the draft to provide those personal challenges your son or daughter may desire. Playing up a division too soon could take away their moments to shine and may put them at greater risk of injury.

The Club strongly urges that players stay within their age groups but realizes that there are situations when the divisional age guidelines in effect may not serve this purpose for your son or daughter.

All requests to play out of the prescribed age division (up or down) will be reviewed by two Commissioners and two Board members.
